Dear Steve,

On behalf of the two groups of which I am a member, thank you for your recent, dynamic presentations. It was your presentation of "Stepping into 'E': Extroverting Your Work (or Wanna Work) Persona for Success" at the Society for Technical Communication which first impressed me. I liked the way you melded research, demonstrations, and personal experiences into an upbeat, motivating program. Your easy-going manner helped breath life into some members of the audience who were jobless and fending off hopelessness in a tight labor market. Thank you. Based on that experience, in my role as President of the NorthBay Bay CHI (bay area computer human interaction) group, I invited you to repeat the presentation to our group. I appreciated your willingness to make small changes to your presentation as we went from an audience of technical writers to one of usability engineers. Both audiences were impressed and appreciative.

I know that you are equally capable of making presentations to other technical groups and hope you do so. Thanks again for your time, insights, and compassion. Best wishes for continued success.

Regards,
Rusty Jorgensen, usability engineer

Dear Steve:

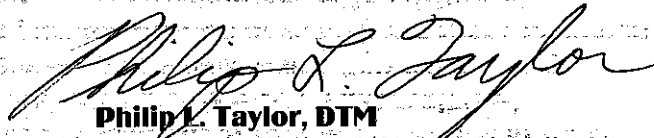

On behalf of District ONE Toastmasters, I thank you for the outstanding presentation you gave at our Fall Conference on Saturday, October 24, 1998. You managed to be both entertaining and informative in your talk, which was entitled "The Dynamics of Effective Leadership".

Especially effective was the segment of your presentation in which you incorporated our audience into the act. That really got everyone's interest revved up to a maximum! You made a very graphic and convincing demonstration of your thesis that the human body mirrors our strengths and weaknesses of integrity and motivation, that when we are powerfully convinced of the truth and value of something, the body evidences that power (or the lack thereof).

There were many positive comments after the Conference on what a fortunate choice you were for our organization's semi-annual event, especially as our theme for the Conference was "Turn Up the Power"!

I hope District ONE Toastmasters will get a chance to see and hear you again in the near future.

Yours,

Philip L. Taylor, DTM

Dear Steve:

It is good to hear from you and receive information on your new venture.

I am confident that you will continue to provide the high quality coaching and education services that you provided in our work together at Taco Bell, Office Depot and now here at Volvo. Your work with the individual speaking sessions has always been well received and impactful. The sessions you ran for me at the International Leadership Conference for Office Depot were well attended (with over 200 participants) and received high marks on the feedback sheets. Please let me know if I can be of any assistance or provide a word of reference with new clients.

I look forward to speaking soon and working together again.

Re: ASHRM Presentation on October 4, 1998

Dear Steve:

On behalf of the Membership Committee of the American Society For Healthcare Risk Management, I would like to thank you for sharing your expertise with us. Your topic "Presenting With Power" was dynamic and filled with valuable tips from the basics to the more advanced and in-depth issues. Though you only had two hours, you maximized every minute and made it not only interesting but used your own principles and made it interactively fun at the same time.

The evaluations reflected that the entire audience enjoyed your presentation and rated it very high on the "value" scale. Many of the attendees approached me afterwards and expressed how much they appreciated the information and were certain it was going to help them in their communication encounters whether in front of a large group or even just with their co-workers.

Again, thank you very much for participating in and helping to make the Annual Conference a success!

Sincerely,

Ann Abke,

Dear Steve:

Thanks so much for your recent presentations to our associates here at KFC. Your enthusiastic style and ability to connect with the audience make your topics fun to listen and learn. I still use all the little tricks you taught us in your first presentation on "The Power of Your Presence." I have since been promoted to director of meetings for both KFC and Tricon. Obviously your hints work.

I hope we have an opportunity to have you with us again. Your topics are always so interesting and full of self improvement in both personal and professional life. Thanks for the suggested summer reading. I look forward to it!

Dear Mr. Whiteford,

On behalf of the Orange County Bar Association Law Practice Management Section and Mr. Callahan, I would like to thank you for your excellent presentation at today's section meeting. I know every attendee was impressed with your presentation and each walked away with useful tips for better communication. Although I only received several evaluations, the program met its expectations and the information was invaluable.

You are a delightful speaker and I look forward to possibly working with you in the future. Mr. Callahan indicated some interest in having you instruct he and several other attorneys in our office. Again, thank you for interesting and effective presentation.

Dear Steve,

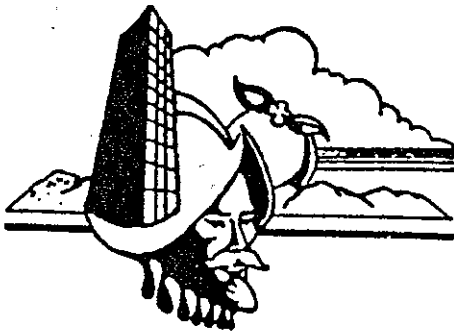

Yesterday we had a company-wide meeting to celebrate the new ALTium name. Lee Murray, President of ALTium talked about the great success of the conference. He said, "on a scale of 1 to 10, I would rate this year's conference a 12!" Ed Kfoury, Chairman of the Board of ALTium was also present at the meeting.

I want to personally thank you for your presentation of "Principles of Dynamic Sales Presentations" at our 1993 International VAR Conference and for your contribution to its success. The seminar was well received by both our resellers and ALTium employees.

Sincerely,
